StayingMe is all about preserving memories, preserving identity, preserving you.

For Carers

We have a number of products aimed at helping carers of all kinds - from relaxation to organizational tools. While a loss of identity is frequently associated with dementia, carers are also gravely at risk of losing their identity, of knowing who they are.

For those with Dementia

To help rediscover and reinforce older memories, we have Memory Books, the Memory Game as well as other memory recall aids. We also have items such as our Bonding Bears to help improve emotional condition.

Rediscovering the Past through Sound

Sound, like smell, is often the forgotten key to lost memories. We might try hard to recall a particular event without success, but hearing something from the time can bring it all flooding back.

The 'Echoes' CD is all about the memories of yesteryear, of bringing them back and of helping the listener to rediscover themselves all over again.

But Echoes is more than just a random set of sound effects. It is a targeted collection of soundscapes aimed at stimulating and reinforcing memories of the past.

Each of the fifteen tracks acts as an audio fresco, presenting a virtual slice of the past to the listener. Using foreground and background sound triggers, it may help the listener to recapture a past which they have long since forgotten.

And all you need is a comfy chair, a cd-player and a little time. And 'Echoes'.

Did you know?

Sound can sometimes trigger memories of times and events that we have long forgotten.

You will need:

A comfy chair in a semi-darkened room is ideal to cut out distractions. You will also need a CD-r compatible player.
